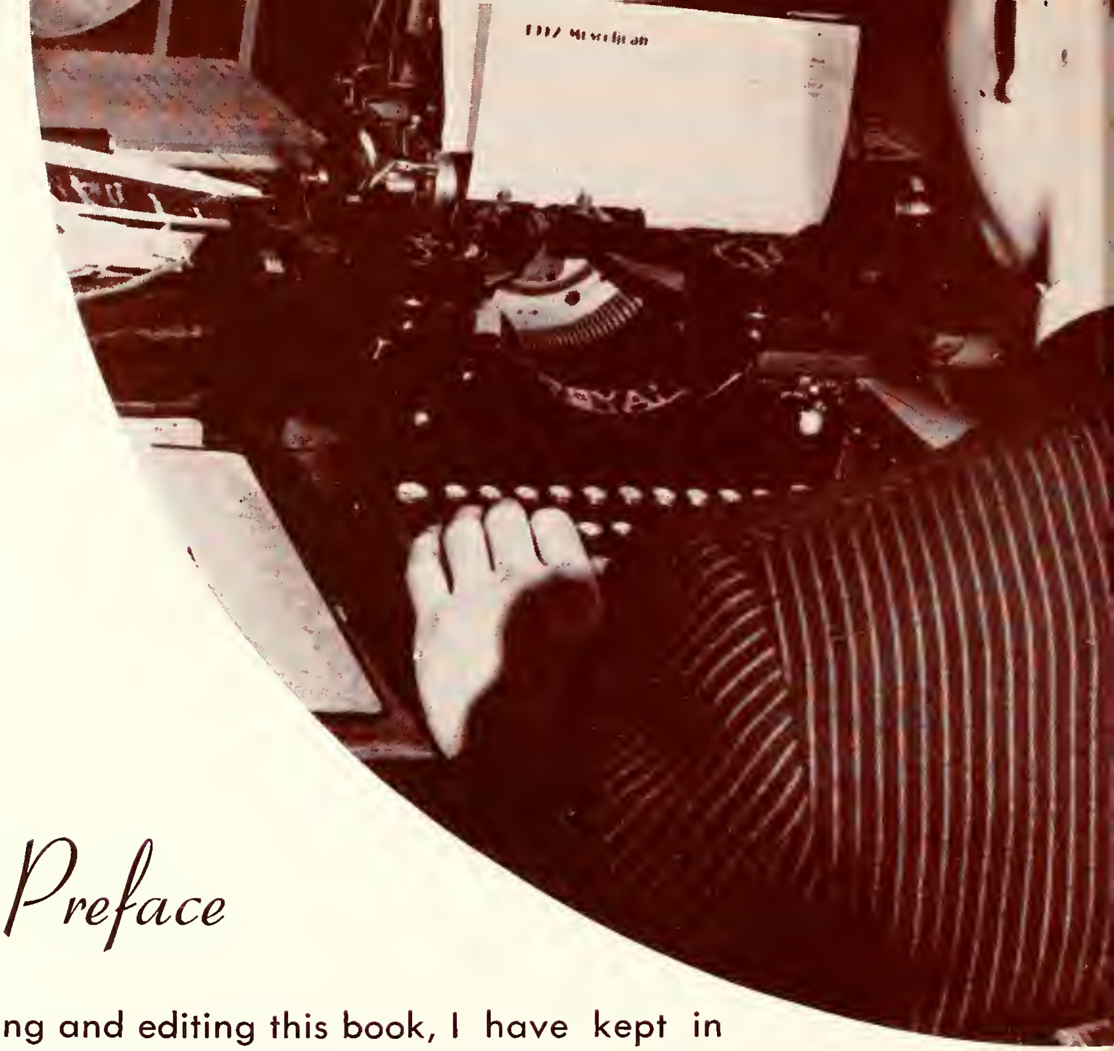
Foreword

Since Muskingum is, we believe, all things to all people, we bring you in the pages which follow an encyclopedia of Muskingum life. It is our purpose here to recapture through the camera's eye, places and events, names and faces — the many things which will spell Muskingum to you when college days are memories.



Editor's Preface

In preparing and editing this book, I have kept in mind three major aims, which demand a note of explanation. First was the change in size. It has been the criticism of many that the larger sized publications would not fit conveniently in a library shelf, and consequently was not as useful as possible. In view of this situation the 1942 MUSCOLJUAN has been reduced to book size with a hundred additional pages and a third more photography.

Second was use of the theme, "Encyclopedia of Muskingum Life". It is to be noted that the word encyclopedia itself bears the meaning, summary. To summarize the life of the college between these covers is a goal which this publication has endeavored to attain. In a continuation of this encyclopedic theme, all materials have been classified alphabetically by sections, with the six main sections being alphabetized for the convenience of the reader.

Third, was making it a reference book. I have tried to visualize the future and develop this book accordingly. This publication is your reference book of a year of hard work, pleasing fellowship, and enjoyable experiences. The book has been designed to refresh these memories, and with these explanations I, on behalf of a splendid staff, present this "Encyclopedia of Muskingum Life" to the students, faculty, and friends of Muskingum College.

"Cam"

Ded

tion

With pleasure and pride, we dedicate this 1942 Muscoljuan to "Cam" McConagha. Thirty-five years ago, a young man named George Cameron McConagha began work at Muskingum as an unassuming furnaceman and janitor for Paul Hall and Johnson Hall. Those two buildings then comprised the entire campus. The quadrangle was a gully, the lake was non-existant, the site of the stadium was a stream-bed.

Muskingum as we know it today is largely the work of that young man, who rose from janitor to college engineer, and who supervised the building and beautifying of the campus. Through the years since 1907 "Cam" displayed a genius for long-range planning and administration, along with a capacity for hard work, which transformed Muskingum from a bare hill-top into the gracious and cared-for setting we see now.

The stadium which bears his name, the campus lake, the quadrangle, all are lasting evidence of his work. To the vision and effort which are "Cam's", and which have done so much toward molding the Muskingum of today, we pay tribute.

A Progressive College

McGuire, Charters, Montgomery, looking ahead

Muskingum this year inaugurated a study of its curriculum with a view toward revision to more adequately meet the life needs of students. Following a proposal by President Montgomery, several faculty committees, with student members, began work on the study. Serving as a consultant for the study was Dr. W. W. Charters, Director of the Bureau of Educational Research of Ohio State University. Revision of the curriculum is planned as a long-term program, with special emphasis to be placed on "general education".

VISITORS WELCOME

Muskingumites are constantly on the go, arriving and leaving by train, bus, auto, and thumb; hurrying from class to class, meeting to meeting, dinner to date; populating Sunday afternoon roads with "strollers"; traveling to near-by cities for shopping and amusement; making the campus and its approaches hum with students ever-moving.

Muskingumites from Afar

Muskingum gains a cosmopolitan atmosphere from the large number of her students who have a background of far places. United on the campus are missionaries' children born in foreign lands, refugees from captive European countries, a student from Mexico; and others. Unfamiliar customs and strange view-points are an important part of the Muskingum picture.

Administration

McKnight

Competent hands do the routine work which keeps Muskingum running smoothly, and alert minds mold the policies of the college. Concerned daily with such mercenary and material things as finances, grades, and admissions, Muskingum's administration has time nevertheless for friendly contact with both students and faculty. Vice-President J. Knox Montgomery serves as business manager of the college, works with numerous committees and aids students in financial problems, in addition to bill-paying. Miss Carrie E. McKnight devotes her attention and advice as Registrar to academic problems of prospective Muskingumites as well as students now in college. Dean William M. French puts into practice the ideals of Muskingum's curricular setup, finds time to befriend homeless dogs as well as students.

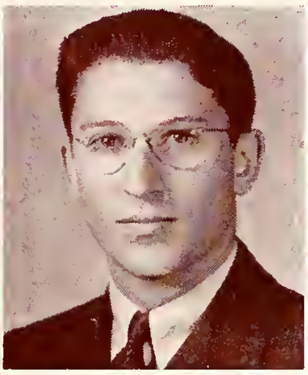
Counselling

Orr



McCracken

Taylor

All sizes and varieties of student problems, from finances to date-trouble, come to the ears of Muskingum's counselling department in the course of a day's conference. These great and small questions find sympathetic hearing and helpful answers in the offices of the Dean of Men and Dean of Women. Youngest dean of men in America is the distinction claimed by Mr. C. W. McCracken, whose enthusiasm is as infectious as it is youthful, but whose close contact with Muskingum men is sincere and understanding. Dean of Women Cora I. Orr and her assistant, Miss Elizabeth Taylor, aid in solving the countless worries of Muskingum coeds, help them choose vocations and even roommates, are continually available for conferences. Pet project of this administrative division is the new course in Principles of Counselling. Freshman orientation classes are also under its direction.

Finance and Promotion

Since no college can exist for long without money or new students, Muskingum's finance and promotion departments are among the most active in the college. Miss Wilda Thompson handles all college funds in her capacity as Auditor, from collection of tuition and N. Y. A. checks to change-making for the candy machine. Mrs. Beula Fritzwater acts as secretary to the Finance committee, also takes care of the collection of Centennial pledges. Alumni Secretary H. Dwight Balentine does promotion work and keeps in touch with Muskingum's army of graduates. Director of Public Relations Paul A. Napier works mostly in the field soliciting finances and new students. Publicity Director Edward C. Keefe keeps Muskingum in the public eye through the medium of the newspapers, radio, and college publications.

Mr. Keefe grinds out publicity.

Health

Following somewhat the concept of socialized medicine, Muskingum's health set-up affords its students medical care for the payment of a fee included in tuition charges. Dr. John M. McCleery closely approximates the popular idea of the "family doc", is keenly aware of students' physical needs. Miss Lucille Lawrence is his able assistant, dispensing "pink pills" and spreading cheer to rooming centers with sniffling inmates. The doctor's office is daily the mecca of those students with major and minor ailments, those needing physical exams in order to participate in athletics, and those merely wondering how many pounds that last chocolate sundae added. Muskingum is distinguished from most colleges of its size by the excellence of its health supervision program.

Library Staff

Textbooks and Ogden Nash verse, encyclopedias and the latest mystery thriller, pass through the hands of Muskingum's library staff in a day of routine work. Innumerable questions, sensible and otherwise, are addressed to the librarians—and are usually answered. Mrs. Grace McClanahan, head librarian, directs student aid workers and supervises the maintenance of order both on the shelves and among the students. Mrs. Winifred McKirahan, assistant librarian, shares in this work, and also oversees the collection of library fines. Miss Iva McConagha, cataloguer, is in charge of preparing and indexing books for the shelves. Student assistants in the library are taught to handle all phases of the work, vocational training being a possible goal.

Secretarial Staff

With the familiar, dreaded order to take a letter just as the 5:00 whistle blows, Muskingum's secretarial staff climaxes a typical day. Extra work and extra hours are accepted cheerfully by these faithful souls, who keep things going for the People Who Keep Things Going. Several of the major administrative offices employ full-time secretaries, exceptions being Miss Wilhelm and Miss White, who double as English instructors. This efficient group never forgets a name, can always decipher its own pothooks, is forever tactful with absent minded bosses. Administrative fate of the college is often delegated to the secretarial staff, which murmurs in unison, "Yes, of course I'll do it. And don't forget your rubbers."

Supervision and Maintenance

Weighty responsibility of coming into the parlor at just the tactful moment in a good-night scene, unpleasant duty of saying "no" to request for pers, broiling countless hamburgers in the Lounge, maintaining sweetness and light in table talk, all are the duties of Muskingum corps of student supervisors. Dormitory Director Mrs. Florence French heads the ranks of housemothers, makes the freshman women feel at home and at ease in their new surroundings. Miss Corinne Kirkpatrick directs the student-besieged Brown chapel lounge, often is out of breath from rush orders. With the other supervisors of rooming centers, these women keep the college going on the distaff side.

Headed by Chief Engineer G. C. McConagha and Custodian Ernest Wylie, a group of hard-working, able men keep things moving behind the scenes on Muskingum's campus. Spending long hours in the power plant or doing the myriad odd jobs which keep Muskingum's building and grounds looking spruce and running smoothly are several assistants in the maintenance division: Harold Hammond, Maurice Crumbaker, R. E. Baker, Guy Slater, William J. Garner, James Hurley, S. T. Rutherford, John Smith, E. L. Stockum, and Alva Martin. Supervision of student aid workers detailed to general campus work is no small part of the duties of these men.

Art

"Art for art's sake" is not the theory of Miss Helen Crisson, nor of Muskingum's art department of which she is the head. Offering courses in both the mechanical and appreciative fields of art this department attempts to give the student an adequate background for the understanding and enjoyment of the cultural arts of our civilization. Favored project of the department this year is the course, "The Arts", which combines art, music, and English departments in the study of fundamentals of expression.

Bible and Religion

Basic difference between Muskingum and many other colleges is the emphasis placed upon religion and spiritual life here. Muskingum's Bible department is organized to give the student full understanding, historically, philosophically, psychologically, of the meaning of Christianity and its worth to the individual, as well as a sympathetic survey of other religions existent in the world today. Drs. McCreight and Rife handle what is too often an argumentative subject in an erudite, logical manner which enhances, rather than detracts from, its true worth.

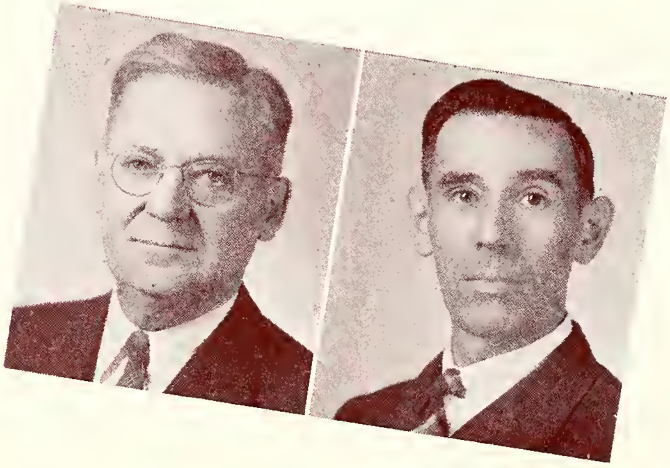
Economics and Business

Money—how to get it in sufficient quantities—is an ever present question in the minds of Muskingumites as well as most people everywhere. Muskingum's department of economics and business administration explains the theories and intricacies of our economic life, trains students for the business world in any position from stenographer to tycoon. Drs. McGuire and Heckman handle the theory, while Miss Amerson instructs in the mechanical phases.

Education



Lowery Bixler

Sole vocational department at Muskingum is the department of education which has supplied hundreds of elementary and high school teachers to the schools of Ohio and Pennsylvania in past years. Organized to keep up with the latest valid trends in the educational field, Muskingum can today claim many of the most successful and respected teachers in these states. Under the direction of Dr. J. G. Lowery, one of Ohio's noted and successful educational crusaders, this department is one of the most valuable in the school, can hold its own with any college or university in Ohio.

English

The world of writing and literature, from ancient Chaucer to the newest ink-damp work, running the gamut from the deepest intellectual tomes to the most fantastic wanderings of human imagination, is encompassed in the work of Muskingum's English department. The English faculty attempts to instill a love for the various types of literature and provides the foundation for an intelligent appreciation of this type of expression. Practical everyday English is stressed as the department strives to acquaint the student with the correct method of expressing himself in everything from business letters to research papers.

History

Work

Democracy is dependent upon intelligent citizenship, and intelligent citizenship is, in part, dependent upon a knowledge and understanding of the forces and deeds of the past, believes Muskingum's history department. Acting on this belief, the department provides complete coverage of the world's recorded history, from a general survey of the most ancient civilization to a detailed study of contemporary trends. Headed by Professor DeJong, the department includes Drs. Work and Dale, both well acquainted by actual personal experience with the philosophy and personnel of European and African governments.

Home Economics

The arts and intricacies of home-making, still vitally essential in our modern civilization, are taught with their numerous and varied ramifications in the department of home economics. Instruction in cooking, sewing, designing, decorating, and buying forms the basis of the department's curriculum. Attention is given to the preparation of high school teachers and the training of professional dieticians. Courses are highly scientific, keeping up with the latest results of organized research. Miss Anna J. Closser heads the department.

Language

It might be "all Greek to you", but to Muskingum's department of foreign languages it's French, German, Spanish, Latin, a touch of ancient enigma, and Greek. Feeling that knowledge of foreign languages is essential to international understanding and to the cultural life of the individual, Muskingum places emphasis on these studies. Instruction includes coverage of grammatical fundamentals and surveys of the important literature of the nation in the original language. Miss Mary E. Sharp heads the modern language division, Dr. J. Merle Rife the classical.

Music

The spirit and blare of the band, the magnificient and inspiring "Messiah", the stimulating and satisfying Violin Festival—these are the outstanding performances by Muskingum's conservatory of music. Music "by, for and of" Muskingum and Muskingumites is the goal of the the conservatory as it prepares music students for teaching, professional work, and personal satisfaction. In addition to participating in group activities, music majors present recitals in classes and individually. Talented musicians themselves, Muskingum's conservatory faculty, headed by Prof. Milton F. Rehg, is a group of interested instructors.

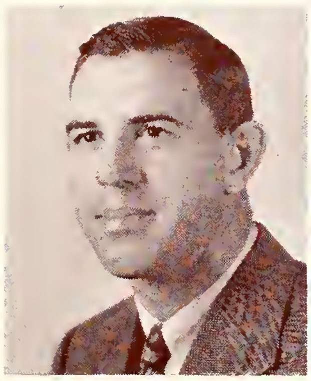
Physical Education



Kissell

Horner

Although the four-hour physical education requirement represents drudgery to some students, to most it means a chance to engage in vigorous athletic competition, to be active in the open air beyond classroom environs, and to take bruised shins and scraped noses as a matter of course. Muskingum's physical education departments offer an extensive program for those planning to enter the teaching field of health or physical training, teaches wholesome principles of personal hygiene and sportsmanship in games, attempts to equip each student with adequate skills in some form of athletic activity.

Mariner, Larkins, Moore talk it over.

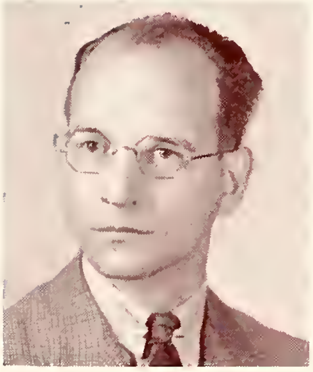
Political Science and Sociology



Ludlow

Aimed at building sincere and informed citizens through a knowledge of government and society, courses in this area discuss current issues in the light of history and science. The department prepares students for graduate work, for the teaching of social studies in the public schools, and for social service work and law. Prof. W. L. Ludlow's classes are a storm center of discussion, often the scene of heated arguments over politics, marriage problems, and the war. Most popular course offering is The Family, always crowded and controversial.

Psychology and Philosophy

Troubled with a complex? Psychology has an answer to your problem. Frustration, compensation, substitution, psychosis, march through the pages of texts and the words of class lectures on this always-vital subject. Courses in philosophy help the student to form judgments on the basis of teachings of the masters, aid in setting up a philosophy of life for the individual. Dr. J. J. Smith and Dr. Helen M. Clarke cooperate in making this department one of practical interest and of present-day significance.

Science and Mathematics

Increased emphasis on values of scientific training in national defense was answered by Muskingum's science department this year in an extension of its offerings in several fields. Many courses stressing practical significance of science today, are coming out of a forest of test tubes and botanical specimens into a world of men and armies. In addition to majors offered in the fields of biology, chemistry, geology, mathematics, and physics, the Scientific Heritage course offers a general background in all the sciences, teaches use of scientific method in study and research.

Speech

Dealing with content as well as manner of presentation, Muskingum's speech department offers practical training for amateur "after-dinner" speakers, for teaching and speech professions. Emphasizing individual weaknesses and strong points, the speech instructors work on freshmen and advanced students to iron out difficulties in approach and attack. Featured offerings this year were a class in Radio Speech, taught by Prof. W. H. Ewing, acting head of the department, and a Speech Re-education laboratory course, providing actual clinical experience in dealing with speech difficulties.

Muskingum's Playground

Ideal recreational facilities make Muskingum's campus well-appreciated by play-minded Muskies. Swimming, both outdoors in the lake and in the gym pool, organized intramurals, winter sports from skiing to sleigh-riding, tennis, bowling, golf—all these make Muskingum's playground.

Apple Blossom Festival

Blue sky, spring day, wind whipping past a loaded running-board, high hill, pink-and-white apple trees, green woods, cool stream, placid cows, dog-tooth violets, laughter, shouting and song, hilarious pie-eating contest, pushing people in a long line aimed at a groaning table of food, grass tickling bare feet, smack of a ball on a glove, crowd getting quiet, stars coming out in the dusk, long trek home, two-and-two, hand-in-hand down the hill—Apple Blossom Festival, May at Muskingum, any, day, any year.

Christmas Formal

Efforts to make the Christmas Formal a first-semester Sejuna this year resulted in a super dance, with all the trimmings. A slight raise in price secured a name band—Bill Ash, who played smooth music—sweet and swing, for an appreciative crowd—best of the year to date, under shiny decorations—appropriate to the season, with credit going to energetic co-chairmen—Roy Green and Marty Darrah.

Committe members Porter, Green,
Darrah, Hood, Skelley.

Thanksgiving Formal

Co-Chairman Caylor and Cook.

Muskingumites left their college days behind and reverted to the little red schoolhouse for an evening of fun at the Thanksgiving Formal. Ellsworth Caylor and Nancy Cook created a top-notch dance around the original theme, which was carried out in the non-fire-proof quad advertising, the black-board decorations, and the "School Days" program at the dance. Wells Ross and his band furnished the music.

Frosh Week

Joe College arrives by train or bus on a certain day early in September, and Muskingum welcomes him with a week of activities especially planned to familiarize him with the college and the people in it. He meets with faculty and student counsellors, gets acquainted with his fellow freshmen, and with them takes part in several social affairs. Climax of the week is the picnic on the dorm lawn, the remains of which are pictured below.

Men's Inter-club Council

Presentation of a scholarship cup to the highest-ranking men's club, adoption of a new constitution—these things are typical of work done this year by the men's inter-club council. Setting itself the task of regulating club action as regards rushing and pledging, and maintaining a friendly spirit between the men's social groups, the council held monthly meetings, fostered constructive criticism of the club system in its working applications.

Harmony, co-operation, and co-ordination among the five women's social clubs on campus is the object of the women's inter-club council, achievement of which constitutes a full-time job. Meeting monthly at the different club houses, the council currently discussed rushing regulations, planned an open house for women's clubs, dealt with general club problems. Responsibility of the group was heightened this year by the founding of a new women's social organization, the Kona club.

Combining all branches of Muskingum's science department into one body, the Academy of Science is composed of representatives from the fields of geology, chemistry, physics, biology, mathematics, phychology, and home economics. A branch of the National Association for Childhood Education was established this year on Muskingum's campus by the elementary education department. This association has developed into a medium through which upperclassmen and freshmen in the elementary field may become better acquainted. Members have had an active first year, have promoted social activities to strengthen greater unity in accomplishing projects and attaining their goals.

Art Club

Painting screens for the college tea room, visiting an art exhibit in Columbus, working on projects, these things occupied members of the Art club this year. Meeting under the direction of Miss Helen Crisson, the club members daubed paint, cut paper, pounded metal, burned wood, tooled leather to their hearts' content. Attention to individual talents and interests was the keynote as the club held business meetings and informal work sessions. Facilities of the art room provide an adequate and useful meeting place for the club, absorb the groans and mutterings of exasperated creative geniuses.

Collegium

Setting themselves the task of bringing the so-called "dead" languages to life, Collegium members this year delved into historical customs and laws of Greece and Rome, studied mythology of the classics. In addition, the organization accomplished two practical goals—translation of its constitution into Latin, and establishment of a definite ritual for itself. Now composed of students with a major or a minor in Latin or Greek, and with an enthusiasm for these languages, Collegium once confined its scope to Latin students only.

Clack of typewriter keys, raucous ring of the phone, rattle-bang of the linotype, metallic click of slugs sliding into galleys, jumbled crash and muttered curse as a head "pi's", impatient voices, thump of mallet on block as the page proof comes off, welcome grind of the presses, nocturnal swish of papers folding under a sleepy circulation manager's hands—these are the sounds of Muskingum's newspaper hurrying to the press and from the press to you. Under the leadership of "tomato editor" French, the B & M this year streamlined its pages and its contents, went in for modern and simplified make-up, terse and professional newswriting. Establishment of a rating system for reporters boosted staff morale, addition of new features stimulated campus interest. The paper kept up with the times.

Relief funds for Free French forces fighting with the Allies were solicited this year by "Le Cercle Francais", Muskingum's branch of the national organization of French clubs in the United States and Canada. Playing an active part in this drive, inspired by a campus appearance of French refugee Madame Denise Davey, the group also studied France and its wartime complications.

The German club, meeting separately and also in conjunction with other language groups, has developed its language interests along cultural lines. Programs were planned throughout the year to give opportunity for speaking German in an informal atmosphere, enjoying German songs and games.

M Club

Wearing the insignia of Black and Magenta athletic teams, the M club is an organization dedicated to creating and maintaining high standards of athletics and sportsmanship among Muskingum men. President of the group is a member of the faculty athletic committee, helps make the policy of the college as regards athletics. M club members serve as hosts to visiting teams, high school athletes, and coaches. They also hold several annual social functions.

Muscoljuan

Revolutionary in size and make-up, unorthodox in approach, unusual in photography—the 1942 Muscoljuan is a product of the best efforts of the editor, business manager, and a staff taken from the junior class, with underclass assistants. The book now before you represents hours of planning and consultation with engraver, artist, and printer, many ideas snatched from the blue and put on paper by the editor; it represents diligent canvassing of campus organizations and advertising sources for funds by the business manager; it represents long hours in a dark room, hundreds of flash bulbs used and broken by the photographer; it represents many small jabs, routine and detailed but important, executed faithfully by the staff. Your Muscoljuan represents a lot of hard labor—and we hope it represents Muskingum.

Going all-out for hemisphere solidarity, the Spanish club this year fostered correspondence with South American countries, presented Spanish plays in its meetings, even practiced up on its rhumba to the strains of Xavier Cugat. Intensified cultural program of the club took advantage of the current interest in things Pan-American, even to the point of playing Spanish games with frequent free-for-alls. Open to all second-year Spanish students with an interest in broadening their knowledge of the language, the club emphasizes that important part of the study of Spanish, namely, background.

Student Council

Council in action

Stimulated by fresh and interested leadership, and "scratched where they itched" by continual student criticism and derision, Student Council this year went to work in a big way. Under the leadership of President Sweitzer an exhaustive study of the functions of student government was started, with a view toward sweeping revisions and the ultimate creation of a working, cooperative student-faculty government. Dealing with day-to-day problems of the campus, Council decreed that all Friday chapels were to be student chapels, established a new set of attendance regulations, and led the way to the creation of a Men's Lounge in Montgomery Hall.

Honesty Commission

Basing its philosophy on trust in the individual, the Honesty Commission strives yearly for a constructive policy of campus honesty regulation. Student members are nominated by the Commission, elected by the students—chief qualification for the work of group is fair-mindedness. The Commission has jurisdiction over all departments, campus buildings, and rooming houses. Armed with serious punitive power, the group sets up standards for campus honor, finds its chief function in regulation of examinations.

The Women's Athletic Association this year continued its constructive program of intramural competition, sponsored a Play Nite in the gym, planned a play day for girls from near-by high schools, co-operated in campus activities promoting sound physical attitudes. An extra "night out" or a return a few minutes after closing hours, and the WAL'll get you, if you don't watch out! But the Women's Activities League is more than a punitive or regulative organization. In fact, the officers will tell you that that is but a minor part of their duties. Designed to "unite the activities of women to promote the highest standards of intellectual and social life," WAL this year sponsored the Christmas sing and bazaar, women's chapels, fort exchanges, appreciation hours, the high school tea dance, and the senior women's memorial.

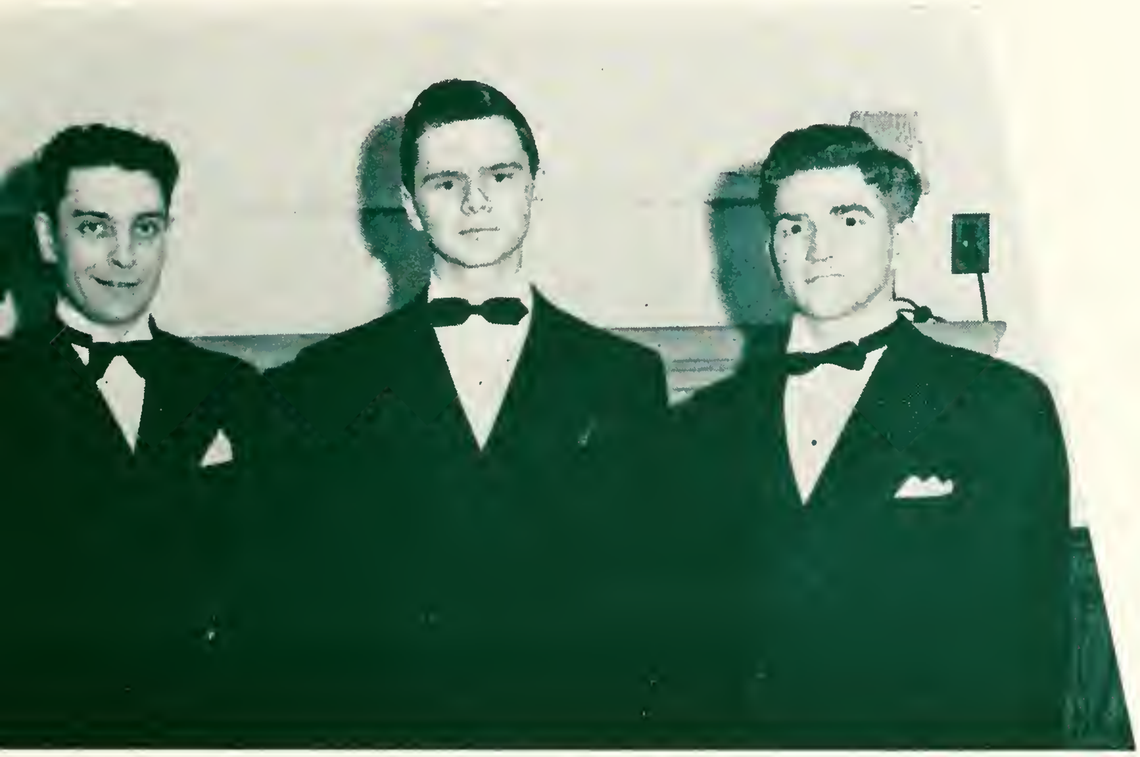
Forensic
Drama

Affirmative: McCready, Pipes, Dander

Debate

"Resolved: That the federal government should regulate all labor unions" was the timely topic which took Muskingum's debaters through a successful season this year. Hard-working Muskie forensics won five out of six debates at an early season tournament at Ohio Wesleyan, seven out of twelve at the giant Manchester-Huntington meet, and placed fourth in the Ohio Conference tournament at Columbus. In addition, they met Denison in two non-decision debates, one here and one at Granville. During the leave of absence of veteran coach C. R. Layton, Wallace G. Fotheringham guided the debate squad.

Negative: Jenkins, Copeland, Reed



Affirmative team for the debate squad this year was composed of three first-year men, Alex Dander, Dick Pipes, and Warren McCready. Veterans Ed Jenkins and Earle Copeland comprised the negative, with George Reed as alternate. Plenty of study, almost nightly sessions together for case building, long hours and hard thinking, made this year's squad a group which worked well together, was tough to beat.

Orator

Ed Eshelman, college orator, chose the topic "All Out Unity" for his original oration. Following a preliminary contest in which he won a first place rating, he came off with fourth honors in the state intercollegiate oratory contest.

Foreground—Simlik, Copeland, Jamieson, McCready, Dander, Taber.
Rear—Fotheringham, Huber, Reed, Jenkins, Hall, Pipes, J. Copeland.

Forensic Club

Local organization for debaters is the Forensic club, well-known on campus for the mirth-provoking, public initiation of its members in the library and the dormitory. In addition to staging this spectacle, the club this year was active in discussion of problems both campus and nation-wide, held its annual spring banquet, and entertained U. S. Senator Harold H. Burton at luncheon when he lectured here. Members were closely associated all year through their work on intercollegiate debate.

Tau Kappa Alpha

Headed nationally for the second time this year by Prof. C. R. Layton, on leave of absence from Muskingum's speech department, Tau Kappa Alpha is a distinguished speech honorary. Membership in Muskingum's chapter of the organization is limited to those men who have had two years' experience as a debater, or one year as a debater and one year as college orator. Attendance at the national convention, held at Christmas this year in Detroit, netted Muskie forensics three high awards.

French Play

"Le Bourgeois Gentilhomme" was last year's presentation by the French play class, under the direction of Miss Mary E. Sharp. The famous comedy by Moliere portrays a newly-rich man attempting to gain a veneer of refinement at a single sitting.

George Washington Slept Here

Hilarious saga of a city family loose in the country, Hart and Kaufman's "George Washington Slept Here" recounts the adventures of said family in remodeling an ancient farmhouse. One of the biggest comedy hits in recent years, the senior play class presented it in the Little Theatre as its first offering of the year.

The cast included Ruth Copeland, Gordon Boak, Art Pierson, Buff Bowers, Bill Ewing, Anna Jane Mull, Bea Davis, Frank Hutchings, Kay Pierson, Lois Kohler, Ruth Ann Hutchens, Ed Eshelman, Paul Roberts, Jane McMillan, Elsie Porter, and Betty Edwards.

Flight to the West

Packed with tense moments and contemporary significance, the second presentation of the senior play class was Elmer West's drama of refugees fleeing the war in Europe via Transatlantic clipper. "Flight to the West" brought the pathos and drama of the world conflict home to Muskingumites.

Brother Rat

Virginia Military Institute is the scene of the comedy presented by the junior play class this year. "Brother Rat", by John Monks, Jr., and F. F. Finklehoffe, proved to be a laugh-laden vehicle for a large cast of juniors, doubling on parts because acceleration of the college program forced abandonment of the second play scheduled for the class.

National Collegiate Players

Sweitzer, White, Boak, Bowers, Otterson, McKirahon, Ewing.

National honorary for those who have distinguished themselves in dramatic work and have at the same time maintained a good scholastic record is the National Collegiate Players. Occupying important position on Muskingum's campus as a reward for merit in campus dramatic presentations, it is designed to encourage the best individual and group efforts in play writing, acting, directing, stage and costume design, and research in dramatic technique and literature.

Muskingum Players

Muskingum Players is the local honorary for those giving interested participation to campus dramatics, having had roles in at least one junior or senior play. Spending much time in the dusty recesses of the Little Theatre, members learn the tricks of the trade, are called upon to usher "out front" during major dramatic presentations. Additional activity this year were frequent pilgrimages to Columbus to see outstanding plays.

Unable to publish their usual "razz issue" of the B & M because of the first semester's telescoped examination period, when the issue usually appears, members of the national journalism honorary were relatively inactive this year. Journalistic interests were discussed informally throughout the term, however, while the members worked together on the B & M and Muscoljuan. Membership in Epsilon chapter of Alpha Phi Gamma is afforded those who have completed at least a year of service on a campus publication.

Cwens

Taking its name from the old Saxon word for "queen", the Cwen organization is the scholastic honorary for sophomore women. Chosen in the spring their freshman year for character, scholastic ability, and participation in campus activities, the red-and-grey costumed Cwens are land-marks throughout the following year. They serve as candy vendors at ball games and carolers at Christmas, are also hostesses at parties for outstanding freshman women, and at teas for junior and senior Cwens. For the first time this year the Cwens entertained their alumnae at a Homecoming reception.

A secret organization since its founding in 1940, O. X. E., sophomore men's honorary, this year made its existence public, gave keys to its members, joined the campus social program. Dean C. W. McCracken was the moving spirit in O. X. E's founding, visioned it as a medium for intellectual fellowship. Constructive bull sessions are held frequently, when members air their views on campus problems, attempt to get down to fundamentals. Members are chosen from the freshman class by outgoing sophomores, must exhibit potentialities of leadership, qualities of straight thinking and seriousness of purpose.

Problems of the black man, the brown man, the yellow man, and the red man in a white civilization were interpreted in papers presented by the members, were re-hashed in sometimes heated arguments which followed. An attempt to get at the bases of group prejudice, and a forecast of its possible implications in modern society were pertinent goals in this year's study.

Forms of literary expression—poetry, the novel, the short story, the drama, the essay—were the subject of Sigma Tau Delta's program for the year. The honorary English organization discussed these forms, heard faculty members speak on them, brought original work to the group for criticism. High point of the year was the campus visit of Charles Morgan, noted English novelist, for whom Sigma Tau Delta held a reception in the Lounge following his lecture. Feeling the sober pressure of war on creative expression, the group attempted to emphasize humorous as well as serious work.

With a broader view as its goal, the YMCA this year worked out several programs designed to interpret the philosophies and activities of other groups, both religious, national, and social. Outstanding off-campus speakers interpreted the Jewish religion, discussed the international question from the point of view of a German refugee, presented the ideals and organization of the co-operative movement. In addition, the men's religious group worked with freshmen throughout the year, which began with the fire-lit pow-wow up the hollow, several social activities, and co-operated with the YWCA in planning nightly prayer groups preceding the services of the Week of Special Meetings.

A Cappella Choir

Pittsburgh, Chambersburg, Philadelphia — so reads the itinerary for the annual A Cappella tour this spring. Making successful appearances in these and other places along the way, the choir brought its year to a climax. Early high point in the group's season came when members presented the Gilbert and Sullivan comic opera, The Gondoliers, before a Homecoming crowd and again in Zanesville. Making frequent appearances off-campus and at monthly chapel services, the A Cappella choir featured some of Muskingum's finest voices in a varied repertoire on which the Bach motet, "Jesu, Priceless Treasure" was outstanding.

Band

Muskingum's band went ultra-modern this year with tricky new formations, use of luminous paint and electric batons in black-out maneuvers, and several swing numbers. In addition to keeping up morale and adding to the excitement at home games, the band made a creditable showing on other campuses. Demonstrating versatility in all types of music at its annual spring concert, it fulfilled its purpose of promoting school spirit and providing an activity for those interested in creating top-notch band music. Much of the credit for the band's year goes to Director Wade B. Fair, who was assisted by Art Pierson as student director.

Choral Club

Choral Society in Christmas presentation of the Messiah

Oldest and largest musical organization on campus is the Choral Society, formed in 1899 for all glee club, choir members, and others interested in music. Prof. Milton F. Rehg directs the group in its annual Christmas presentation of excerpts from Handel's famous and inspiring Messiah. One hundred sixty voices composed the chorus for this year's oratorio, which featured four outstanding off-campus soloists—Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Treash and Mr. Frederick Kruegar, of Philadelphia, and Miss Ann Keppel, Muskingum alumnae from Coshocton. The college symphony orchestra and the organ accompanied the presentation, climaxed as always by the tremendous "Hallelujah Chorus."

Orchestra

Making its second major appearance of the year in the annual Violin Festival this spring, Muskingum's symphony orchestra completed a successful season. Veteran violinist Prof. W. W. Gray directed the orchestra in the Festival and in its other appearances, acted as concert master when the symphony accompanied the Choral Society's presentation of Handel's Messiah at Christmas. Selected orchestra members also accompanied a Zanesville group's presentation of the oratio. Expert blending of string, woodwind, brass, and percussion made the symphony easy and pleasant to listen to, took it to heights of expression in its interpretation of the master works.

Headlining the calendar of the two organizations was the formal musicale held at the dormitory. Second on the list, but extremely important in point of the members' enjoyment, was a successful dance held at the Cambridge Country Club. SAI members are chosen for outstanding musical ability along various lines, are responsible for sponsoring frequent informal musicales and entertaining visiting musicians. "How Merrily We Live", sang the freshmen and upperclassmen who comprise the Women's Glee club, presenting one of the effective and well-balanced arrangements on their year's repertoire. Under the direction of Mrs. Mildred Clark, the club's purpose is to train girls who like to sing and who enjoy working together. Membership is attained through satisfactory try-outs. This year the glee club appeared in several off-campus programs in Cambridge and Zanesville, and was the featured attraction on a student chapel program. The lovely aria, "One Fine Day" from Puccini's Madame Butterfly was a favorite with glee club audiences.

A new coach, a green team—those pre-season facts didn't inspire Muskie rooters to any high hopes for the grid team. But Howard "Monk" Kissell took over the reins in a big way and with the assistance of "Bill" Moore and "Mac" Mariner turned out a team that was always given a chance of victory and an aggregation that "was never out of the ball game". Climax of the season was a 12-7 upset of "Stu" Holcomb's undefeated Wash-Jeffers in the Prexies' finale. Johnny Hadden was Muskingum's outstanding performer as his brilliant running brought the fans to their feet many times. Captain George Serdula gave a good imitation of the immovable object from his tackle position, and veteran "Wink" Evans was still one of the toughest wings in the business. "Red" Davis and "Powerhouse" McNeill turned in some mighty powerful backfielding. "Red" Smith, the little guy who was always there, is probably still the subject of nightmares for some of the opposition's backs. All in all, the team gave Muskingum rooters an enjoyable and thrilling season of football and gave indications that next year would see more victories.

"The most feared team in the Ohio conference—"That was Muskingum's fighting Muskies as they roared down the home stretch of the cage schedule, knocking off their opponents right and left. Mount Union, conference champs, looked sick as they fell before the Marinermen by a 10 point margin and no ball game was over until the final gun barked. Co-Captain Bob Holtsclaw was the spark of the team and he turned in phenomenal scoring feats and won a place on the mythical All-Ohio. Big "Stretch" McDowell presented an almost impregnable defense and grinning "Mike" LoPresti was the crowd's favorite, forever getting his adversaries all tangled up. "Ster" Pollock and "Red" Davis, two first year men, won themselves a place on the starting five with the greatest of ease and turned in some sensational performances. Sixteen wins and four losses was the season record, a good one, but one that will be bettered next year—Muskingumites feel.

Cold weather, graduation, and acceleration presented almost insurmountable obstacles to a successful season for track coach Mariner. With ace sprinter "Woody" Gephart unavailable for competition, the Muskies struggled through the season relying on the distances and field events for their points. Beaver and Russell turned in some excellent races in the 880, mile, and two mile, while Bechdel, Cornwall, and Dennison won their share of points in the field. Soccer, ping pong, volleyball, basketball, handball, boxing, softball, tennis—a complete gamut of the sports calendar tells the yearly story of Muskingum's intramural set-up. Designed to provide competition for men not interested in trying out for the varsity, the program is centered around the men's social clubs. Scoring is done on a point basis and a plaque is awarded at the end of the year to the club winning the most events. Hot races and high-class performances invariably characterize the yearly program.
